The American traveler has a habit The American traveler has a habit of arriving at the station about ten minutes before train time and expects to complete all his business in a hurry. To get there a haif hour ahead of time impresses him as an interminable wait. It is easy to see how much thought and pains will be given to the declarations of the value of baggage.

This unpopular regulation might serve one possible use, however, if it would ised people to acquire the habit of getting to stations in sufficient season to attend to details with less furry.

Australian and Swiss Military Training Systems.

Since the great European nations spent millions, raised by taxation, in lent of two cars by boat and three cars preparing to slaughter one another's told in this country that we, too, must be prepared Military men talk very glibly of the Swiss and Australian army systems and many even now ad-vocate adoption of one or the other in this country.

In order that people may do some of the deciding for themselves, the main outlines of the Australian and Swiss systems are here given.

Both systems involve universal compulsory military service!

In Australia the military is divided into two groups—the permanent forces and the citizen forces. The permanent cars of Arizonas, standards selling at forces number about 2,000 men and are $2.75 to $3.50, two-third crates at $1.75 to $2.50 nink meet flats at 750 to $1.75 to $1.00 skill and to act as instructors for the to $2.50, pink meat flats at 75c to $1.10; skill and to act as instructors in-quality and demand good; twelve cars clude every man between the ages of of North Carolinas, standards at 75c to fourteen and twenty-six. At first there was much hostility to this universal compulsory military service, but now the people have got used to it, and employers especially are said to be pleased with it because they say that it makes their employes more amenable to orders. Big parades are not encouraged, but are held occasionally "to inspire the people." ally "to inspire the people."

The Swiss system is even more searching. While the Australian system be-
